

COH Telehealth Webinar

Centre for Online Health CENTRE FOR HEALTH SERVICES RESEARCH

(In partnership with the Australasian Telehealth Society)

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the COH Telehealth Forums will proceed each month with a special online format, which is designed to address common questions related to telehealth. The COH will partner with the Australasian Telehealth Society (ATHS) to provide a monthly webinar. The webinars will include a short presentation (20-30 minutes) on a specific telehealth topic, and a Q&A panel discussion (20 minutes) involving experts from the COH and the ATHS. Participants are encouraged to send their questions to enquiries@coh.uq.edu.au and the panel members will do their best to address these.

Webinar Topic:

Telehealth Communities of Practice: Collaborating and sharing knowledge

Presented by:

Alice King

Alice is the regional Telehealth Program Manager for the Barwon South West region of Victoria. She also coordinates the Telehealth Victoria Community of Practice, with colleagues in Victoria.

In this forum we will discuss how telehealth communities of practice (COP) have been established, how they can work and the benefits of working as communities of experts. The forum will also explore potential interest in and opportunities to bring telehealth COPs together nationally.

Panelists this month include:

- Kim Ford, Assistant Director of Nursing, Telehealth Tasmania, Tasmanian Health Service
- Alan Taylor, Vice-President, Australasian Telehealth Society
- Professor Tim Shaw, Director of Research and Director of Digital Capacity, Digital Health CRC
- Professor Anthony Smith, Director, Centre for Online Health, CHSR (Webinar Chairperson)
