

COH Telehealth Webinar

Centre for Online Health CENTRE FOR HEALTH SERVICES RESEARCH

(In partnership with the Australasian Telehealth Society)

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the COH Telehealth Forums will proceed each month with a special online format, which is designed to address common questions related to telehealth. The COH will partner with the Australasian Telehealth Society (ATHS) to provide a monthly webinar. The webinars will include a short presentation (20-30 minutes) on a specific telehealth topic, and a Q&A panel discussion (20 minutes) involving experts from the COH and the ATHS. Participants are encouraged to send their questions to enquiries@coh.uq.edu.au and the panel members will do their best to address these.

Webinar Topic:

A 21st century (and pandemic friendly) approach to delivering cardiac rehabilitation

Presented by:

Dr Jonathan Rawstorn

Jonathan is a Heart Foundation Postdoctoral Fellow at Deakin University's Institute for Physical Activity and Nutrition (IPAN). His research focuses on telerehabilitation program design, development, evaluation, and most recently translation into clinical practice.

This forum will discuss how evidence-based mobile health interventions can improve the reach and accessibility of cardiac rehabilitation for people who are unable to attend existing centre-based programs. It will also explore potential interest in and opportunities for collaboration and partnerships to translate research evidence into clinical practice.

Panelists this month include:

- Dr Rita Hwang, Physiotherapist, Princess Alexandra Hospital & Adjunct Fellow, Centre for Online Health
- Dr Emma Thomas, Research Fellow, Centre for Online Health, CHSR
- Associate Professor Liam Caffery, Telehealth Technology Director, Centre for Online Health, CHSR
- Professor Anthony Smith, Director, Centre for Online Health, CHSR (Webinar Chairperson)
