

COH Telehealth Webinar

Centre for Online Health CENTRE FOR HEALTH SERVICES RESEARCH

(In partnership with the Australian Telehealth Society)

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the COH Telehealth Forums will proceed each month with a special online format, which is designed to address common questions related to telehealth. The COH will partner with the Australian Telehealth Society (ATHS) to provide a monthly webinar. The webinars will include a short presentation (20-30 minutes) on a specific telehealth topic, and a Q&A panel discussion (20 minutes) involving experts from the COH and the ATHS. Participants are encouraged to send their questions to enquiries@coh.uq.edu.au and the panel members will do their best to address these.

Webinar Topic:

Industry responses to COVID-19 – what does the future look like?

Presented by:

To kick-start the first COH Telehealth Forum for 2021, we will be hearing from several industry partners of the ATHS and learning about their responses to COVID-19.

In this webinar, panelists will briefly introduce their telehealth experience and the services they offer. This will be followed by an interactive Q&A discussion with panelists and webinar participants – with a particular focus on how the pandemic is changing the telehealth landscape, and what is expected to change in the coming years.

Panelists this month include:

- Margaret Kuhne, National Telehealth Manager, Royal Flying Doctor Service
- Alex Hollings, Sales Manager, Visionflex
- Anjelo Ratnachandra, Pain & Fatigue Management, Mental Health and Wellbeing, Beyond Pain
- Kim Ford, President, Australian Telehealth Society
- Professor Anthony Smith, Director, Centre for Online Health, CHSR (Webinar Chairperson)
- Associate Prof Liam Caffery, Telehealth Technology Director, Centre for Online Health (Webinar Moderator)
